COUNTY OF KANE

Published August 2023

This booklet briefly describes the various departments within Kane County government, outlines the services provided, and lists the names of the administrators of those departments. It also includes a comprehensive listing of the national and state officials who represent the citizens of Kane County, as well as the elected and appointed officials of the units of local government. Due to multiple elections in Illinois each year that affect leaders in state and local government, it is inevitable that some names of elected officials will be outdated within a few months of publication. However, the descriptive information should remain constant.

This booklet is intended to enable citizens to become more familiar with Kane County government, thus encouraging each person to take an active part in its decision-making process.

Further information can be located on the Kane County website, www.countyofkane.org, and updates to this guide will be available at the County Clerk's website, clerk.kanecountyil.gov.

History of Kane County

The development of Kane County from virgin prairie land to the fifth most populous county in the state demonstrates the evolution of modern government.

The Kane County region was discovered in 1673 by the French explorers, Father Jacques Marquette and Louis Joliet, as the explorers returned north along the Illinois River after their travels south along the Mississippi River. The explorer Robert de La Salle and his lieutenant, Tonti, later claimed the land for France. In 1717, the region was placed under the rule of Louisiana, remaining a French possession until the close of the French-Indian War. Following the signing of the Treaty of Paris in 1763, the land was ceded to the British. British control of the region ended in 1778 when George Rogers Clark captured "Illinois Country" for the Americans during the Revolutionary War. Portions of Illinois were claimed by Virginia, Massachusetts, and Connecticut. All claims to the territory in present-day Kane County were ceded to the federal government by the mid-1780s.

Many plans were advanced for dealing with the newly acquired federal territories. Thomas Jefferson proposed to divide what now is known as Illinois into three different states with present-day Kane County as part of the state of Assensipia. However, it was decided to give Illinois large boundaries at the advice of James Monroe, who had made several trips to the area and deemed the entire Midwest "worthless and uninhabitable."

In 1787, the Northwest Territory was established by Congress to provide the government of all lands northwest of the Ohio River. Illinois initially became a part of the Indiana Territory in 1800, and the Illinois Territory was established by an act of Congress in 1809. In 1818, Illinois was admitted as the 21st state with Kaskaskia as its capital.

At the time of statehood in 1818, only Native Americans were known to be residing in the Kane County area. Resentment grew among the Native American community as the settlers took over their land and forced the indigenous people west to Iowa. In 1832, the Sauk leader and warrior, Black Hawk, gathered together members of the Sauk and Fox tribes in an effort to regain their homelands. In response to this action, United States Army troops under the command of Gen. Winfield Scott were sent from the east to Chicago, where they had been delayed by a cholera epidemic. While no battles occurred in Kane County, Scott's men marched through the area that is now marked by Army Trail Road, fording the Fox River north of the present city of St. Charles, near the Blackhawk Forest Preserve. With the defeat of Black Hawk's band at the Bad Axe River in Wisconsin, the Native American initiative in northern Illinois was suppressed by the United States Army. Within two years, permanent settlers followed the trail from Chicago created by the Army wagons, and the way was paved for new development in the Kane County area. The trail was also an important part of an early mail route between Galena and Chicago.

The first known non-Native settler in Kane County was Christopher Payne, a New Yorker, who settled near Batavia in 1833. Toward the end of 1834, nearly 40 more families settled along Fox River, including the Aldrich, Churchill, Herrington, McCarty, McKee, Miles, Minard, Vandeventer, and Van Nortwick families. The first child was born in Kane County in 1834. The first store and mill appeared in the same year. The first school was soon organized near Batavia, and the first church was also established in 1835.

New residents and visitors alike discovered the resources found in Kane County. In a letter published in a contemporary newspaper, a visitor to Kane County described the area, stating, "If any preference can be given among so many counties, all of which are so beautiful and so fertile, that preference must be given to Kane. I think, after taking all things into consideration, that I may safely pronounce it the best county in the State. Although the prairie land predominates, it is interspersed with valuable groves, containing timber sufficient for fuel, fencing and building for years to come...[I]ts magnificent river, which supplies so much water power and propels so much machinery, adds materially to the wealth and business of the county."

On January 16, 1836, the Illinois legislature formed a new County named for the recently-deceased Elias Kent Kane, a highly respected attorney who helped draft the Illinois Constitution. Kane became the first Secretary of State and was later elected to Congress, representing Illinois in the U.S. Senate until his death in 1835. The original boundaries of the newly-created Kane County included present-day DeKalb County and the northern portions of Kendall County. DeKalb subsequently separated from Kane County in 1837 and Kendall did the same in 1841. The current boundaries of Kane County, approximately 540 square miles, were set in 1841.

A committee of three members of the legislature selected LaFox, which later was renamed Geneva, as the Kane County seat. This selection was made because James Herrington's Tavern and Inn, located on North State Street near the Fox River, had the only post office in the County. Herrington's Tavern also served as the first County Courthouse. In June 1836, 180 men gathered at Herrington's Tavern to elect officials for the new County, and they conducted voting for three commissioners, a Sheriff, a Recorder of Deeds, a Coroner, a Clerk, and a Surveyor.

In 1837, the County offices were moved out of Herrington's Tavern into a new courthouse on the corner of 4th and State Streets in Geneva. Construction costs for this courthouse totaled $3,000. By 1844, Kane County had outgrown these quarters and a new quarry stone courthouse was constructed on the site of the present Geneva City Hall on Route 31.

The Illinois Constitution of 1848 empowered counties to change their form of government. The residents of Kane County, mostly settlers who had traveled from New England, chose the county-township model. 16 townships were created: Hampshire, Jackson (currently Rutland), Dundee, Burlington, Washington (currently Plato), Elgin, Franklin (currently Virgil), Fairfield (currently Campton), St Charles, Royalton (currently Kaneville), Blackberry, Geneva, Batavia, Little and Big Rock (currently, Big Rock), Sugar Grove, and Fox River (currently Aurora) Townships. The following year the responsibilities of the County Commissioners were divided. The administration of the County was transferred to a Board of Supervisors, consisting of one supervisor from each of the 16 townships. The County Clerk was added as another elected official. A chief judge and two associate judges assumed the judicial responsibilities formerly held by Commissioners.

Overcrowding in the jail and Courthouse soon created a need for a new, larger building. Bids were let for construction in 1854 at the site of the present-day Courthouse on 3rd Street in Geneva. Disputes with the contractor prevented the building from opening until 1857. The new Courthouse, designed by a leading Chicago architect, John M. Van Osdel, was considered the most important architectural monument in Kane County. The ornate three-story limestone building was capped with a large cupola and became a favorite vantage point in the area.

Financing construction of the new Courthouse proved an additional economic burden to the County Board when it already faced budgetary problems in the wake of the Civil War. In July 1861, the Board appointed a War Committee which appropriated money for horses, bounties, equipment for the troops, and family benefits. Hundreds of men from Kane County volunteered to serve in the Civil War, attesting to Kane County's involvement in the war operations. The names of these men are preserved in a plaque on the monument in front of the present-day Courthouse in Geneva.

The years following the Civil War were marked by a sudden increase in population as people came to the area looking for jobs in the mills and factories along the Fox River. Railroads also played a significant part in the growth of Kane County, as the first line in northern Illinois crossed Elgin and continued south to Geneva. The Galena and Chicago Union Railroad linked the lead mines on the Mississippi River with the Chicago industrial area. This line eventually became the BNSF Railway, which has continued to run through Kane County since 1853. Aurora served as a major railroad center operating with the Aurora Branch Railroad beginning in 1850 and later the Chicago, Burlington, and Quincy Railroad (now BNSF). The old roundhouse that served the railway on North Broadway has been renovated into a restaurant and brewery. Other railroad lines connected the river towns with each other, as well as the Chicago metropolitan area.

The railroad was also instrumental in establishing Kane County as a prominent dairy region at the time. Chicago's hotels were a major consumer of milk, butter, and cheese from northern Kane County. Railroads provided rapid transportation for the fresh dairy products shipped daily into the city as the county's involvement in the dairy industry proved influential nationally. The Elgin Board of Trade established butter prices throughout the country.

On March 13, 1890, Kane County lost one of its most prized buildings when a fire destroyed the Courthouse. Fortunately, the records of the recorder, County Clerk, and Circuit Clerk were locked in fireproof vaults and not damaged. For the next two years, the county rented a house at 2nd and Campbell Streets in Geneva for $30 a month in order to conduct county business. The clerks crowded into the various rooms while the judges held court in the dining room.

The Kane County Board commissioned Chicago architects, W.J. Edbrooke and Franklin P. Burnham, to design the new Courthouse and jail. The massive four-story Courthouse, which still stands today, is still regarded as one of the finest in Illinois. The original construction cost totaled $195,000. A square dome rises high above the rotunda and decorative ironwork railings encircle each floor. Within the fourth floor, eleven murals are painted on the arches depicting various scenes from the County.

Kane County continued its rapid growth throughout the 20th Century. The population doubled from 65,000 to 130,000 during the 50-year period from 1890 to 1940. The population doubled again to 260,000 in the next 30-year period through 1970, along with the increasing number of industries, medical centers, and educational institutions. In 1967, the United States government built Fermilab, a center for energy research and development, on a 6,800 acre site outside Batavia. This research center provides educational and cultural opportunities for residents of Kane and surrounding counties.

The form of government for Kane County changed again in 1972 when the Illinois legislature abolished the Board of Supervisors and established the independently-elected County Board. Kane County was divided into 26 districts, with one board member elected from each district. The new 26-member County Board came into power in May 1972.

The Board immediately faced problems regarding the County jail. The 1892 facility had come under attack for being "totally inadequate" and having "deplorable conditions." Construction was authorized for a new jail in June 1972. Called the Kane County Corrections Complex, the jail was located on Fabyan Parkway in Geneva. The $3.5 million institution opened in 1975 and was considered one of the most modern in the nation. However, that facility became outdated, and the current jail, which opened in 2008, is located next to the Kane County Judicial Center on Route 38 in St. Charles.

With the continued growth of Kane County and crowding of the Courthouse, the county was forced to rent several downtown homes for additional office space. In November 1972, the County purchased the Sacred Heart Seminary on Route 31 in Geneva. Remodeling began quickly, and by early 1975, all county administrative offices had moved to the current site of the Kane County Government Center.

In September 1975, the County Board empowered the Public Building Commission to refurbish the Courthouse and convert the vacated administrative offices into space for the Circuit Court and Clerk. Subsequent growth of the county in the 1980s required the acquisition of more property. The former Sixth Street School was acquired to provide additional space for Family Court, the Health Department, and the Regional Office of Education for several decades until it was sold in 2016. An addition to the County Clerk's office at the Government Center in 2001 provided additional office space.

With the rapidly continuing growth of the county, the 1892 Courthouse became extremely overcrowded. In 1991, the County Board approved the construction of the Kane County Judicial Center, on Route 38 in St. Charles. In October 1993, the Judicial Center was opened and presently houses the criminal courts and some offices for court services. A time capsule, inserted in the cornerstone of the 1892 Courthouse, was opened at a ceremony held at the Courthouse in September 1994. Contents of the time capsule are now on display at the Geneva Historical Society Museum.

Additional space was needed for the Circuit Court Clerk's office which maintains Court records. In the 1980s, space was rented in the former Campana building located at Route 31 and Fabyan Parkway for the Circuit Clerk, but a long-term solution was necessary. In 2002, the Circuit Clerk's office moved to the old Montgomery Ward property on Randall Road in St. Charles. The Kane County Branch Court joined the Circuit Clerk's office on Randall Road in 2011.

Additional changes have affected the County Board as well. After decades of debate, members took action to change the size of the board. On May 23, 2011, following the 2010 Census, the County Board adopted Ordinance #11-136, to reapportion the County Board and determine the number of Board members. In that ordinance, the Board voted to reduce the Board by 2 members to the Board's current composition of 24 members.

Kane County's population is 516,522 based on the 2020 Census data. Kane County was one of the few Illinois counties to gain population from 2010, although the increase was smaller than predicated by estimates. In 2021, the Board struggled with reapportionment because the official Census Bureau data was delayed for more than 6 months leaving the Board to navigate through conflicting state statues regarding redistricting and election timelines and ultimately voted to maintain the number of seats at 24.

Through its comprehensive land use plan, Kane County continues to attempt to balance the seemingly conflicting interests of maintaining the traditional beauty, rich farmland, and open spaces, while responding to the pressures for rapid commercial and residential development of the agricultural areas. The decisions made by the County Board and other elected officials will influence the growth of Kane County and impact the future for Kane County residents.

Kane County Elected Officials

Auditor

Penny Wegman (2020-2024)

The County Auditor audits all claims against the County and recommends to the County Board the payment or rejection of those claims. The Auditor collects, analyzes, and preserves statistical and financial information regarding the cost of operation of the facilities maintained, operated, or owned by the County. The Auditor maintains a file of all contracts entered into by the County Board and authorized by County Officers. The Auditor maintains a continuous internal audit of the operations and financial records of the Officers and departments of the County and audits the real and personal property owned by the County. The Auditor provides ministerial approval of County orders consistent with the rights of internal operations of County Officials.

Do you have a digital sign in front of your building?

Join the Kane County Clerk's Voter Outreach Program!

The sign in front of your building can help engage voters and promote democracy!

- ▶ The Clerk's Office partners with local businesses, schools, and governments to promote voter participation, including registration and early voting
- ▶ Participants post messages on signs before/during elections to remind voters about elections
- ▶ Voter Outreach Program partners are recognized through press releases and promotion on social media
- ▶ Voter turnout and early voting have increased since the program began
